

I AM NYCC

JOSHUA IBE (6TH TRI)

Josh Ibe was born and raised in Toronto, Ontario. After graduating from the University of Toronto-Scarborough with a Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry and minors in Psychology and Health Sciences, he worked for two years as a physiotherapy assistant in a multidisciplinary clinic. Having always wanted to work in the medical field and become a doctor, he began to observe the skills of the clinic’s chiropractors and was impressed by the strong connection they had with their patients. Shadowing more chiropractors exposed him to the field and influenced how he would like to practice.

The doctors who were influential in helping Josh settle on this career path were graduates of New York Chiropractic College. Dr. Christina Ippolito has been one of his best role models, not only as a doc, but in life in general. She is a great at adjusting and extremely smart. Others who have left a lasting impression on Josh are Drs. Vincent Loia, Brett Carnevale, and Hunter Mollin. While he appreciates the importance of the basic science courses, he particularly enjoys the hands-on technique classes. Josh prides himself on the technique he has learned and developed, and regularly takes advantage of open adjusting hours.

After establishing himself in a general practice, Josh, who has played basketball, volleyball, baseball, softball, and soccer, would eventually like to focus on working with athletes. His dream is to practice in the states, but he will always keep Toronto close to his heart as it is where his mother, brother, and new sister-in-law still reside.
